Use the questions/ prompts on the Discourse Card resource to start a conversation about something the student has read. You may talk about a text the student read in one of the lessons above, or anything else the student is reading.

Encourage daily reading. And remember, reading isn't just about the books on the shelves—it's about anything around you with letters! Turn on the closed captioning feature on your TV or read catalogs that come in the mail. The backs of cereal boxes work, too, as do directions to board games!

Running out of stuff to read? Grab some sticky notes, and label household objects, or make up new, silly names for things! Communicating with sticky notes, instead of talking, is fun, too—start with a half hour and see if you can go all afternoon. Reading is everywhere!

Don't worry about right/wrong answers when you talk about text—the important thing is that you and your student share a reading experience and have fun!

Asking Questions

A key detail is an important piece of information. Asking and answering questions helps you notice key details.

Here are some questions you can ask about the key details in a story:

- ▶ Who are the characters?
- ▶ Where are the characters?
- ▶ What are the characters doing?

Think about:

When are they doing this?

Why are they doing this?

Asking and answering questions about key details helps you understand how the parts of the story fit together.

People think it is so easy to be a dog.
They scratch my head and say, “Elvis, your life is so easy.”

Boy, are they wrong. Being a dog is hard work! I don’t like what I do every day. I just can’t do it anymore!

I wake up on a cold, hard floor every day.
I eat dry dog food for breakfast. Yuck!

Then I have to drag myself out the door to chase the mailman. I do NOT want to chase the mailman! He is a nice guy. He scratches my belly. He feeds me bananas.

What do I do next? I hide in a closet. I am trying to cough up a hairball.

Then I hear someone call, “Elvis! Come!” And of course I come running. I see that someone has dropped some meatloaf. They want me to eat it off the floor. Gross!

Finally, I talk to my best friend, Maxwell.
“What should I do?” I ask him. Maxwell lives under the dishwasher. He is a mouse. He is also a painter! Today he is painting a banana.

I say, “I don’t want to be a dog anymore,
Maxwell. I have no time alone. The food stinks.
And people throw balls at me!”

“I know what you mean,” Maxwell says as he paints.

“You have to do what makes you happy. That is why I paint beautiful fruit. It makes me happy. Other mice look for crumbs all day. That makes them happy. You have to do what makes YOU happy, Elvis.”

I think about this. Then I say, “Well, I like licking my paws! I like winding around people’s feet so that they trip. And I love drinking milk.”

“I’ve got it!” Maxwell cries. “It sounds like you have spent too much time being a dog. Why don’t you try being ... a cat!”

“Is he sick?” Penny Picklebottom asks.

“He has been sleeping standing up. Why would he do that?”

“And why would he gallop around the yard?” Mr. Picklebottom asks.

“And why steal my best blanket? Is he cold?” Mrs. Picklebottom adds.

Now everyone is quiet. They watch the dog. Elvis prances through the yard. He has thrown a blanket over his back.

Elvis shakes his head every few steps. His hair blows in the wind. Then he jumps over a low tree branch.

“What does that dog think he is doing?” Mrs. Picklebottom wonders. “Last week, he tried to sit in my lap like a cat. But now what? Dogs don’t prance. They don’t wear blankets.”

Mrs. Picklebottom is right. Elvis is acting strange. He is not acting like a dog at all!

Elvis runs inside. He dashes under Penny's legs. Then he stands up. Penny is sitting on Elvis's back!

Asking Questions

A key detail is an important piece of information. Asking and answering questions can help you find key details.

Here is how you find key details:

- ▶ Ask a question. Begin the question with one of these words:

Who	What	When
Where	Why	How

- ▶ Look for the answer to your question. You can find it in the words or in the text features.

When you ask questions about what you read, answering your questions helps you understand the text.

Drip, Drop, Roots on Top

by Kimberly Feltes Taylor

You are in a rainforest. The air is warm.
Rain falls hard and fast. Soon, the rain stops.
But the air still feels wet. Will it rain again? Yes, it will. This is life in the rainforest.

A rainy day in a rainforest

Drip Tips and Raincoats

Have you ever been soaked by the rain? Your clothes get wet. You need to dry off!

Plants need to dry off, too. Plants can die if they get too much rain. Drip tips can help. A drip tip is a pointy end on a leaf. Rain drips off the pointy part. The leaf dries off.

Leaves with pointy drip tips

You can wear a raincoat to stay dry. Some plant leaves make a waxy coating. This coating is like a raincoat. It stops water from soaking into the leaf.

Splat, splat, splat! Rain falls. The drops roll across the smooth, shiny coating. They slip and slide off the leaf. The leaf dries off.

Raindrops rolling off a waxy coating

Roots Get Food

Many plants have roots below the ground. The roots grow far down. They are hard to see.

The roots absorb, or soak up, food from the soil. The food is from dead plants and insects. The dead things fall apart and sink deep into the soil.

Roots below ground

In a rainforest, roots peek out of the dirt. Some roots even stay above the ground. Why?

Roots stay on or near the top because the food is there. Dead plants and bugs wash away before they can sink into the soil. Roots need to stay on top of the soil to absorb this food.

Roots above ground

Trees and plants live with a lot of rain in the rainforest. Plants stay dry with drip tips and waxy coatings. Roots soak up food before it washes away. Plants and trees survive in their rainy, rainforest home.

A Plant's Beast Feast

by Melissa Carroll

Many animals eat plants. And guess what? Some plants eat animals! The pitcher plant does this. It kills and eats bugs for food.

This plant lives in warm, rainy forests. It has a leaf that is shaped like a pitcher. The plant catches bugs in this special leaf.

Colorful leaves with a pitcher shape

Bringing in Bugs

Pitcher plants get bugs to come to them. The plants can be orange, pink, or red. Bugs like bright colors. They go to the plants because these colors attract them.

Ant on a bright plant

Some pitcher plants are dark green or brown. These plants have a different way to bring in bugs. The plants have a smell. Bugs follow the smell. They go to the plant.

Fly on a smelly pitcher plant

Eating Bugs

The bug lands on the plant. Pitcher plants have a special outside. The bug cannot hold on tight. It goes down inside the plant.

Bug slipping into a pitcher plant

The plant is wet inside. It is so wet that the bug falls apart. It breaks into little bits. The plant takes in these parts of the bug. That is how a pitcher plant eats a bug.

Bugs in the wet inside of a pitcher plant

A mouse or a frog can fall into a pitcher plant, too. The plant eats the animal, just like it eats a bug. A pitcher plant is always ready for its next meal.

pot two times. The mush bubbled up.

Then Mother hit the pot with a stick. The mush dropped down. It was ready to eat.

One day, Greedy Fawn's parents were going for a walk. His mother said, "Greedy Fawn, do not make a fire while we are gone."

Then his parents left.

Greedy Fawn's stomach rumbled. He made a fire and boiled water. He sprinkled chestnut into the pot. Then he sprinkled in even more.

“More chestnut will be better,” he said.

Greedy Fawn stirred the mush. He stirred it two times. Then he stirred it ten times.

Cowboys are leading five hundred cows along a rocky trail. They have been traveling on the path for weeks. But they still have a long way to go.

“Who said that?” the trail boss yells. He yanks on the reins to stop his horse. He glares at his team with one angry eye.

The other cowboys are afraid of the trail boss. They stay quiet.

A cowboy named Wayne looks over at the young cowboy who was shouting. Wayne has been herding cows his whole life. He often helps new cowboys.

And the young cowboy surely needs help. He is sliding off his saddle. He looks like he is riding a horse for the first time.

“Hey, new kid. What is your name?” Wayne asks. Then he fixes the young cowboy’s saddle.

“My name is Jelly,” the young cowboy says. He tries to drink from his canteen. Water splashes his face.

“Well listen, Jelly. The trail boss does not like when the cowboys ask questions. You want to know if we’re there yet? Just ask me. Don’t make a fuss.”

Wayne holds up a map.

“Wow! Where did you get that map?” Jelly asks.

King of the Trail

by Yehudi Mercado

Claire's hard feet slide on the rocks. She is so tired! She and the other cows have walked on the trail for weeks. They still have many, many miles to go.

"No," Claire says. She sits.

“That’s Claire,” says Lady. “She does not listen. She does what she wants. She should start moving.”

The King stands next to Claire. He looks into her eyes. “You must move now.”

“No,” Claire says. “This trail is too long. The rocks hurt my feet.”

Just then, a map blows in the wind. Claire looks at the map. She points to the end of the trail. “Is that a field?” she asks.

Describing Connections

To connect means to fit together. Events and ideas in informational text can connect in different ways.

Here are two kinds of connections:

- ▶ Events follow each other in time order:

1. New leaves grow in spring.

2. Flowers bloom in summer.

- ▶ One event or idea causes another:

1. A lot of rain falls at once.

2. Rivers rise and flood.

Describing connections between events and ideas helps you understand and remember key details.

Play Ball!

by Tiki Moore

A Very Old Game

Long ago, people in Mexico and Central America liked exciting ball games. They made up a ball game thousands of years ago. It was called Pok-ta-Pok. It was a little like basketball and a little like soccer.

A game of Pok-ta-Pok

Two teams played against each other. They played outside on a ball court. The court was shaped like the capital letter “I.” It had tall stone walls on each side.

A Heavy Ball and a High Hoop

Pok-ta-Pok was hard to play! The rubber ball was heavy. The court had two hoops, like a basketball court. But the hoops were made of stone. The hoop was 20 feet high. That is as tall as a giraffe!

No Hands or Feet

The rules also made Pok-ta-Pok hard to play. Players could not kick the ball. They could not throw the ball. So players needed other moves to get the ball in the hoop.

Players bumped the ball with their hips. They used their knees. They had to keep trying!

The games were long. Some games lasted for days! The team that got the ball through the hoop the most times won.

The Pueblo Girl Scatters the Stars

by Alicia Zadrozny

The lost girl had been walking for hours.
She moved her bag from shoulder to shoulder.

“It’s as heavy as a sack of corn,” she said.

“Take this bag,” the mother of all people had told her. “Do not open it. You will find your tribe by the great river. Give the bag to the elders. Then you will learn its secret.”

The girl walked for many days. Her feet ached. She missed her tribe. But mostly she thought about the bag.

One night, the girl sat by a stream. She held the bag in her lap.

“I know I’m not supposed to...” she whispered. Then she untied the bag anyway.

The girl opened the bag. Tiny objects rolled and scattered everywhere. Were they pebbles? Seeds? The girl didn't have time to find out. The tiny objects moved so fast!

“Oh, no!” the girl cried, as she chased the tiny, mysterious things. She grabbed a handful of them. The rest flew away into the sky. They lit up the night. They were stars!

The girl stuffed one handful of stars back into the bag. She kept walking.

All through that night, the girl thought about what she had done. She felt so much shame. Never once did she look up at the bright, twinkling lights.

Finally, the girl found her tribe at the river.
She quickly gave the bag to an elder.

“This bag is from Our Mother,” she said. “I did not listen to her instructions. I lost so many stars.”

The elder was kind. He said, “You cannot ever lose the stars. They are always with us.”

The elder opened the bag. He tossed the rest of the tiny stars into the sky. They hung in the shape of a pot.

“We will name it Big Dipper,” he said.

From then on, the girl always looked up at the stars. And she tried to name them, each and every one.
